A Wounded from the Shatila Palestinian Refugee Camp during the Israeli Invasion of Lebanon

A colour photograph for a wounded from Sabra and Shatila Refugee Camp, his name is Talal Abbad, as shown in the photograph he is reading Balsam Magazine issued by the Palestine Red Crescent Society. The Photograph was captured following the Israeli invasion on Lebanon, also known as the "Galilee" Operation, which was carried out by "Israel" on the pretext of protecting the Israeli settlements in Al- Galilee from the danger of the Palestinian Fedayeen Missiles which were launched in the north of Palestine, However the very main reason for the war was to extract the Palestinian Liberation Organization from Lebanon.
